Right to Cancel:	 Statement of right to cancel The Credit Contracts and Consumer Finance Act 2003 gives you a right for a short time after the terms of this contract have been disclosed to you to cancel the contract. How to cancel If you want to cancel this contract you must give written notice to the Creditor. You must also return to the Creditor any advance and any other property received by you under the contract. Time limits for cancellation If the disclosure documents are handed to you directly you must give notice that you intend to cancel within 5 working days after you receive the documents. If the disclosure documents are sent to you by electronic means (for example, email) you must give notice that you intend to cancel within 7 working days after the electronic communication is sent. If the documents are mailed to you, you must give the notice within 9 working days after they were posted. Saturdays, Sundays, and national public holidays are not counted as working days, and neither is the period between 25 December and 2 January. What you angy have to pay if you cancel If you cancel the contract the Creditor can charge you: (a) the amount of any reasonable expenses the Creditor had to pay in connection with the contract and its cancellation (including legal fees and fees for credit reports, etc.); and (b) interest for the period from the day you received the advance until the day you repay the advance. This statement only contains a summary of your rights and obligations in connection with the right to cancel. If there is anything about your rights, or if you think that the Creditor is being unreasonable in any way, you should seek legal advice
